

HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON TEXTBOOKS

This list of suggestions is meant to help students save money when purchasing required textbooks.

This is not a recommendation of one site over another — explore options and make informed decisions. Match the ISBN or ask before buying if your professor approves of the edition you selected.

1

ASC Virtual Store

bkstr.com/agnesscottstore/home

Textbooks in print, eBooks from Follett, and cash buyback for your used textbooks.

2

Purchase Used Textbooks

Use ISBNs (international standard book numbers) to comparison shop the major book sellers or use with sites that compare prices for you. Beyond amazon.com, you may want to price:

chegg.com

abebooks.com

alibris.com

textbooks.com

Cheaper than new books, try buying used textbooks online – just make sure it's the *same edition that your professor requires, or ask if they approve of an alternate.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON TEXTBOOKS

3 Rent Textbooks

www.textbookrentals.com

www.bkstr.com/agnesscottstore/home

Some sites allow you to rent textbooks. Make sure you return the books on time as late fees can be significant. Be clear on rental terms and conditions before you commit.

4 Free Downloads

books.google.com

gutenberg.org

Some books that are no longer copyrighted can be used online or downloaded for free.

5 Library Course Reserves & Controlled Digital Lending (CDL)

agnesscott.on.worldcat.org/courseReserves/landing

Your professor may have asked McCain Library to include your textbooks or books in our collection on Reserve, meaning you may borrow the book for two hours at a time or overnight. The Library also has thousands of ebooks.

CDL is a service where we scan a chapter of a book in our collection and lend it to you in two-hour periods.